Dear Donor:

Thank you. In 2021, your generosity left lasting footprints on our beloved island. At Lanai High and Elementary School (LHES) your generosity grew mushrooms, teaching about food systems and agriculture in every grade; it extruded ceramic pots, cut mats, and framed art; it introduced and engaged 8th graders in entrepreneurship. It helped young children learn through play and high school athletes to sharpen their skills and prove themselves for college scholarships. Your gifts fostered family fitness and connection. Perhaps most importantly, MKCF boosted spirits in a year when the pandemic continued to impair lives. You could be proud to contribute to any one of these outcomes but your gifts enabled all of it.

The MKCF primarily supported education in 2021, granting 73% of its $106,693 dispersed. It was important. Students around the globe lost a year of education and students on Lana'i were not an exception. Funding projects and providing emergency grants make the MKCF a vital resource for the school.

MKCF has so many success stories, "Just when I was about to give up MKCF provided us the funds to modernize our computer lab, providing students with the equipment necessary to teach a complete computer electronics and repair course." J. Frank Walls, CTE Digital Arts & Media

This year our projector died just after your funds became available. I teach all my classes with slideshows and would've had to return to the "dark ages" if I hadn't had these funds to replace it. You peeps boost my morale! :) Lisa Galloway, PhD

Lana'i's keiki, adults, and seniors are happier, healthier, better educated, and better equipped for what the future holds. Our mission was met.

Please continue to support the work of MKCF in 2022. Whether you call Lana'i home or return like the tide with families and friends to spend holidays and vacations in this unique place, you will see the difference your generosity makes. And if you haven't become a part of the MKCF family, perhaps you will consider a donation!

Mission: To create opportunities for Lana'i residents by funding and mentoring community nonprofit organizations in the areas of Education, Health Care, Senior Services and the Arts
